Joshua Spies Fine Art Teaming with Hunter's Dream for a Cure

(Watertown, SD) - Joshua Spies Fine Art is joining with Hunter's Dream for a Cure to raise funds nationally for special needs children.

"Our foundation is truly very excited about this new partnership with Joshua Spies Fine Art! I am personally touched by Joshua's generosity and kind heart. As a fellow native South Dakotan, we hit it off right away and I already feel like he is a long-time friend of Hunter's Dream. There is no question that he has the Spirit of Hunter's Dream," said Founding Director of Hunter's Dream, Robb Nelson.

Hunter's Dream for a Cure is a non-profit organization dedicated to finding a cure for Sturge Weber Syndrome and helping to assist with enrichment programs for special needs kids.

"Being a father myself, I want to do everything I can to help these kids," Spies said.

Joshua Spies Fine Art currently works with many conservation organizations to raise money through the sales of his prints at their banquets and conventions. A portion of all proceeds raised from art sold at these banquets will now benefit Hunter's Dream for a Cure.
